

OFFICIAL FAN GUIDE

SCHELDEPRIJS

Dear cycling fan,

Soon, the unofficial World Championship for sprinters will once again take place in Terneuzen and Schoten. And it's not only a special occasion because everyone can be there in person again; this year the Scheldeprijs is celebrating its 110th anniversary!

This guide contains everything you need to know about the anniversary edition of the Scheldeprijs. Discover where the women and men start and finish and where you can spot them along the course. Dive into our overview and learn all about the oldest Flemish spring classic: from tourist spots along the circuit to the start lists.

The wind has often been present in previous editions, so be prepared for a blustery day! Join us in our quest to find the fastest legs of the peloton and the successors to Jasper Philipsen and Lorena Wiebes. Thanks to this guide, you'll be up to speed with the 110th edition of the Scheldeprijs on 6 April!

Happy reading and viewing!

TERNEUZEN - ZEELAND

This year, the Scheldeprijs for the Men Elite will start for the fifth time in Terneuzen, the Netherlands, and we can finally welcome you back in person! The riders unofficially start on Stadhuisplein. The official starting shot will be given before the Western Scheldt Tunnel and they can set off!

PROGRAMME

- 11:15 a.m.: Men Elite team presentation at the Markt in Terneuzen
12:45 p.m.: Start Men Elite's race on Stadhuisplein

We can enjoy the Scheldeprijs in person again, but unfortunately Covid-19 is still around. This means the team zone will not be accessible to the public. However, you can return to the front row when the starting shot is given for the men's race.

HOW TO GET THERE

On foot

Do you live close to the centre of Terneuzen and would you like to come and encourage the riders at the start? If so, it's best to come on foot! Within walking distance of the starting zone you will find a covered bicycle parking facility and a temporary bus stop.

By bike

Cycling to the starting zone is a healthy and cheap way to travel. A few minutes' walk from the starting zone, a free, guarded and covered bicycle parking facility will be located on Herengracht. An additional, outdoor bicycle parking facility will also be provided with fencing as an extension to the facility. Don't forget your lock so that you can secure your bike and leave it behind safely.

Public transport

For those wishing to take the bus to the starting zone, there will be a temporary stop at Terneuzen-Van Steenbergelaan/Axelsestraat, which is a 5-minute walk from the starting zone.

Are you heading to the starting zone from Belgium? You can take a Connexion line from Zelzate. Are you coming from the Netherlands? If so, it is best to consult the Connexion timetable here.

By car

If you do come to Terneuzen by car, you can park free of charge on the temporary parking spaces along the verge of the Scheldeboulevard, between De Blokken at Waterfront. Follow the instructions of the supervisors present. Either you park in the blue zone, for a maximum of 2 hours, with a parking disc, or you choose one of the paid car parks (at ground level and underground).

EXPLORE TERNEUZEN

Terneuzen is a beautiful port city and this connection with water is not only felt in the port. The city offers many (water) leisure options and is also a must for shopping or sampling the culinary delights on offer. In the region around the Western Scheldt, lovers of peace and greenery will certainly find what they are looking for. In the Smitschorre area near Axel, for example, you can explore the States-Spanish Lines. Here tranquil nature meets some wild remnants of the Eighty Years War. In the enchanting Green Canal Zone around Terneuzen you can take a delightful walk in the fresh air. Or experience for yourself how the Zeeland wind plays a role for riders of the Scheldeprijs and set off for a challenging bike ride in the midst of all this splendour.

EXPLORE ZEELAND

Zeeland is a green delta and former island kingdom situated between Flanders and Holland. For many centuries Zeeland battled against the water. Many storm tides have plagued Zeeland and changed its shape over time. Many villages were swallowed, but after the great storm surge of 1953, Zeeland was 'dry'. From then on, the islands were connected, protected by the Delta Works.

Yet the struggle against the water is not over. With new artificial defences such as Waterdunen, they continue to fight against the wild water. Zeeland has proud but modest inhabitants who are in love with Zeeland and are only too happy to 'share' it with visitors who come here to enjoy Zeeland's beautiful beaches, culinary qualities and rich history.

SCHOTEN

PROGRAMME

Schoten is not only the backdrop for the men's finish on 6 April; since last year the women have also been racing in and around Schoten. They start on Churchillaan, which is also the finish line, and, like the men in the full finale, face several local laps in Schoten.

- 10:00 a.m.: Team presentation of the Women Elite on the podium on Churchillaan
- 11:30 a.m.: Start of the women's race on Churchillaan
- 1:45 p.m.: First passage of Women Elite at the finish on Churchillaan
- 3:00 p.m.: Expected finish of the Women Elite
- 4:10 p.m.: First passage of Men Elite at the finish on Churchillaan
- 5:20 p.m.: Expected finish of the Men Elite

We can enjoy the Scheldeprijs in person again, but unfortunately Covid-19 is still around. This means the team zone will not be accessible to the public. However, you can be in the front row again so you don't miss the starting shot of the women's race and the finale sprints.

HOW TO GET THERE

On foot

If you live nearby and want to head to Churchillaan to encourage the riders, it's best to go on foot.

By bike

For all cycle race enthusiasts in and around Schoten, we recommend you come by bike if at all possible. There are bicycle parking facilities within walking distance of the start/finish zone in Schoten:

- ▶ Kopstraat 10, Parking Vordenstein
- ▶ Sint-Cordulastraat

Public transport

Travelling by train to Antwerp? Plan your journey via www.belgianrail.be. From Antwerp Central Station you can continue on to Schoten by tram and/or bus. You can find the route planner here.

By car

If you come to Schoten by car, combine this as much as possible with public transport to and from the centre of Schoten.

Parking spaces on the outskirts where you can leave your car:

- ▶ Carrefour car park, along Hortsebaan
- ▶ Parking Domein Vordenstein, Kopstraat 10
- ▶ Parking Sporthal De Zeurt, Eksterdreef 6
- ▶ Parking P+R Keizershoek Bredabaan, Merksem (€1,00 a day)

Find out more about mobility here.

EXPLORE SCHOTEN

Schoten is the epicentre of the Scheldeprijs, with not only the men's finish, but also the start and finish of the women's race since 2021. The unique town hall in Neo-Renaissance style is a castle that appears to float on the water. 32% of the total area of Schoten is forest. Schoten remains a green municipality, despite the fact it is densely populated. Because of all this greenery, Schoten is a hit with cycling and walking enthusiasts. During your visit, be sure to explore Park Vordenstein! The nature is both landscaped and truly majestic in its natural beauty. It's the ideal spot to unwind.

THIS IS HOW IT WENT LAST YEAR

We take a look back at last year's edition. It was a cold, wet and windy Scheldeprijs, so during their first edition, the women also learned about the weather conditions that so often determine this race. This year, we will be looking for the successors to Lorena Wiebes and Jasper Philipsen who sprinted to victory in 2021.

OVER THE YEARS

The oldest Flemish spring classic celebrates its 110th anniversary this year and has become the unofficial World Championship for sprinters over the years.

Alfred Martougin, founder of de Scheldeprijs

In 1907, the first 'De Grootte Scheldeprijs' was organised by the Antwerp division of the B.W.B. (Belgian Cycling League) and the French-language Antwerp weekly 'La Chronique Sportive'. This was how the 25th anniversary of the Royal Belgian Cycling League was celebrated. Frenchman Maurice Leturgie was the first name on the list of honour.

Unfortunately, the organisation was suspended during the First World War after only a few editions. Isidoor Méchant was the first person to win the Scheldeprijs after the Great War.

In 1926, the Scheldeprijs moved to Schoten where it has remained. Jef Dervaes was the first person to win the renewed Scheldeprijs.

During the 1930s, the Scheldeprijs was organised on the Tuesday of the local Fairground with the 'Schotenkermis'. By adding more local laps, the race became more and more of a Schoten affair. The changing approach detracted from the 'traditional' character of the Scheldeprijs, but the race stood alongside the famous 8 of Brasschaat and the Schaal Sels from neighbouring Merksem.

In 1940, cycling was impossible once more. World War II was in full swing and all sport came to a standstill. A year later, it was different. As many sports competitions as possible were organised once again. In 1945, World War II threw another spanner in the works. After skipping a year, the Scheldeprijs was organised again in 1946.

The 1950s heralded is a golden age for cycle racing. There were great cycling champions in all European countries. And Belgium was no exception. The Flandrien of Flandriens, Briek Schotte, won the Scheldeprijs in 1955.

In the 1960s, the Scheldeprijs matched his level. With victories by, among others, Jos Spruyt – Poulidor's super team mate – Walter Godefroot and Petrus Oellibrandt. The latter eventually won the Scheldeprijs three times and held the record until 2016, together with Mark Cavendish.

In de jaren 70 vervoegen een aantal grote

In the 1970s, a number of major Belgian champions joined the ranks of the Scheldeprijs winners. Merckx, De Vlaeminck and Maertens took to the podium. German golden boy Didi Thureau also won in Schoten in the 1970s.

Major changes awaited during the 1980s. When the Scheldeprijs felt the competition of the Tour and the criterium in Ronse, and the stars stayed away, the race moved to April.

Looking back on the 1990s reminds us of the victories of Mario Cipollini, Frank Vandenbroucke and Peter Van Petegem, and the great change of 1996. The start moved to Grote Markt in Antwerp.

At the beginning of the 21st century, the race took place during the week between Paris – Roubaix and the Amstel Gold Race. Big names such as Tom Boonen, Mark Cavendish, Robbie McEwen and Alessandro Petacchi added the Scheldeprijs to their list of honours.

In 2010, the Scheldeprijs joined forces with Flanders Classics. The date of the Scheldeprijs was postponed to the week between the Tour of Flanders and Paris – Roubaix. The peloton views the Scheldeprijs as the ideal intermezzo. In 2018, the start in Antwerp was replaced by the Dutch city of Terneuzen, after which the riders cycle a large loop through blustery Zeeland. Despite the battle with the wind, the Scheldeprijs remains the unofficial world championship for sprinters, with German sprint legend Marcel Kittel as the record holder with five victories. The last innovation dates from 2021, when the women rode their first Scheldeprijs and the spring of Flanders Classics was complete.

RACE INFORMATION

Want to plan your day ‘on the wheel’ of the riders in advance? Below you’ll find all the circuit-related information you need.

IN SEARCH OF THE WIND

Nothing much changes in the men or women’s race. The men’s starting shot will reverberate across the border in Terneuzen, before seeking out the wind in the polders and on the dykes of Zeeland. After the potential risk from heavy winds, the peloton crosses the border in Putte this year before starting the local laps in Schoten, with four passages over the Broekstraat cobbles.

The women start their second Scheldeprijs in Schoten and first have to endure a loop through the Belgian Kempen. They head towards Hoogstraten, where open plains and possibly wind await. Their race also ends with three local laps in Schoten, after which we look forward to finding out who will succeed Lorena Wiebes.

Check the timetables so you can choose where to encourage your favourites or find out when they will fly past your front door. Who will be the fastest and win the battle with the wind?
