PROVINCE DE LIÈGE

Ideally located in the heart of Europe, within the Euregio Meuse-Rhine, on the border between the Netherlands and Germany, the province of Liège is a veritable source of cultural and heritage wealth. Shaped by history for centuries, it also offers food-lovers local culinary specialities that are famous well beyond its borders.

This land of sport has produced many talents, such as Jean-Michel Saive, Thierry Neuville and Philippe Gilbert, in various disciplines. Its diversity reflects the contrasting topography of the province and the quality of its infrastructure.

The province of Liège is particularly passionate about cycling. It is the only Belgian province to have hosted the three men's Grand Tours as well as the women's Tour de France. Some climbs, which have become legendary as the races have gone by, have left their mark on the history of cycling: La Redoute, Stockeu, Mur de Huy, etc.

Through a dynamic policy that encourages sports activity at all ages, and supports both amateur and professional sport, the Province has developed solid expertise in event organisation: "À l'écoute de tous les sports et de tous les sportifs." [Listening to all sports and all athletes.]

HUY

La Flèche Wallonne and Huy: 40 years of shared history. The romance between Huy and cycling began in August 1869 with an event during the city's annual fair. A velodrome was built there in 1919, ahead of La Flèche Wallonne passing through Huy for the first time in 1936. Huy became a finish city in 1983, with the finishing line on Quai d'Arona, on the banks of the Meuse. The «Mur de Huy», which will forever be a focal point for the Ardennes Classics, was the La Flèche Wallonne finish for the first time in 1985, and has been ever since. What's more, the Women's race also went on to set up base there from 1998. While the inhabitants of Huy are proud to host this event every year, the Tour de France has also passed through the city on several occasions: in 1995, 2001, 2006 and 2015. These were memorable editions for the people of Huy, who are always looking forward to hosting others. In 2025, La Flèche Wallonne is offering a new opportunity for cycling enthusiasts, as well as all those who love to join in with the sporting buzz, to experience the magic of this event. The three laps by the male riders and the two laps by the women's peloton will provide many opportunities to feel the passion, determination and effort deployed to conquer the legendary Mur de Huy, with its 900 metres of elevation gain. Huy therefore continues to join in this true celebration of cycling, year after year. La Flèche Wallonne in Huy is more than just a race, it's living history, filled with pride!
